Brazil is not only the beaches of Ipanema, however beautiful they may be. For yachtsmen looking for supreme paradise, they have only to navigate along the famous Costa Verde, literally “the Green Coast” and discover its hundreds of islands.

Situated south of Rio de Janeiro, the bay of Angra dos Reis has 365 luxurious tropical islands - one for each day of the year - and more than 2,000 spectacular beaches, some of which have remained as they were when discovered by Portuguese explorers more than 500 years ago.

Our base in Angra dos Reis (the Bay of the Kings) is in the Verolme marina, the largest in Latin America. The marina has excellent services and many activities close by. Each island has magnificent sea beds which you can explore with flippers, mask and snorkel. Onshore, there are many possibilities for hiking. The Costa Verde is the ideal location for cruising, water sports and fishing.

Whether you prefer relaxing in the sun on the beach, water activities, discovering the natural treasures in the National Parks or want to enjoy an evening party in the trendiest spots, you will be blown away.

Close by, the town of Paraty, founded in 1667 and a long-time economic centre, has retained its architectural heritage and charm thanks to its artisans, restaurants, cultural life and unspoiled beauty.

Sail from one island to another in this magical bay. From Enseada Grande, well known for its snorkelling spots, to Isla Partida’s Los Islotes and its colony of sea lions, passing by the magnificent lagoon of Isla San Jose, you will find everything you could wish for on Brazil’s Green Coast.

Dream Yacht Charter welcomes you to its base in Brittany in La Trinité-sur-Mer, from where you will discover the splendours of the Baie de Quiberon, from the Golfe du Morbihan and the Côte Sauvage.

Brittany's jagged coastline is reminiscent of Cornwall, but there are also magnificent beaches of fine sand and bays with turquoise blue waters which resemble the Caribbean. Magnificent ports and bays, wonderful beaches, peaceful moorings and picturesque villages abound. The islands of Houat, Hoëdic and Belle-Ile-en-Mer are equally unmissable stops. The Golfe du Morbihan ("little sea" in Breton), with its forty-two islands - some of which are inhabited, others not - is ideal for island-hopping. Don't miss discovering the many sites of prehistoric megaliths (man-made structures of one or several huge stones).

Belle-Ile is the largest Breton island. The "beautiful island" is brimming with magnificent beaches such as Donnant, a surfers' paradise, Herlin with its shallow waters or the beach at Grands Sables which stretches for 2 km with white and gold sand. At sea as on land, there are many activities: surfing, kayaking, diving, walking or cycling, golf etc. The little island of Gavrinis is home to one of the most impressive Neolithic sites (constructed between 4,500 and 3,000 BC). Its pyramid-form funeral chamber has a passage whose walls have been sculpted with rare finesse. You can even test your sailing skill on dry land by trying your hand at sand yachting in Quiberon. The 14 km-long peninsula offers many land and sea activities if you want to forego the tiller for several hours.

A deliciously golden kouign-amann, scrumptious sugary crêpes, creamy salted butter caramels, a colourful plate of seafood and a bowl of sparkling cider: Brittany is characterised by the richness of its cuisine and the authenticity and conviviality of its dishes.

Set a cap for Antigua to discover its sinuous coastline and beaches of fine, white sand like talcum powder. Sail in the wake of Admiral Nelson and dive from the deck of your boat onto coral reefs teeming with tropical fish.

Antigua is the largest of the English-speaking Windward Islands in the West Indies. In 1784, Nelson, the famous British admiral, made Antigua the largest English Royal Navy base in the Caribbean. More than 200 years later, the same attractions have led Dream Yacht Charter to establish itself in this heavenly island. Our base is located in English Harbour, a superb marina with restaurants, a supermarket, boutiques and many services. In the Spring, more than 100 boats in all categories assemble there for Antigua Week, an extremely popular and friendly regatta.

You can choose to sail to the south and the island of Montserrat or to the north and west towards Nevis, Saint Kitts, Saint Barthélemy and Saint Martin. Antigua benefits from a hot climate, tempered by predictable trade winds. It is one of the most beautiful destinations in the Caribbean: it is said that there are 365 beaches in Antigua, one for every day of the year. Your challenge is to visit all of them!

You may also decide to sail towards Barbuda for its extraordinary beaches of pink sand and its coral reef. One of these extends for more than 10 kilometres! You can also relax there with complete peace of mind. Onshore, visiting St John's, the capital of Antigua, you will appreciate the baroque towers of the cathedral which dominates the town, with its busy shops and restaurants. English Harbour has been completely restored and Nelson's Dockyard is the only naval dockyard of the Georgian era still in operation. Shirley Heights, to the south of Antigua, is worth a visit for its panorama and the party which takes place there every Sunday evening. It's a must for your stay in Antigua!

The Bahamas are a real paradise for yachtsmen, with their crystalline waters and deliciously hot climate. The Abacos chain of islands forms a boomerang nearly 210 miles long. The Sea of Abaco refers to the huge cove drawn by this crescent of islands whose waters are thereby naturally protected and calm. The Abaco National Park natural reserve is home to more than 200 species of birds, particularly the endangered Bahamian Parrot, which will delight the most fervent nature lovers.

Great Abaco, the main island, is the location of our base in Marsh Harbour, the gateway to this constellation of islands and islets where the Summer temperature swings between 26 and 30°C. Comprising 29 islands, 661 sandbanks and around 2,400 islets, the Bahamas are full of history and traditions. Many British loyalists set up home therefore following the American Revolution.

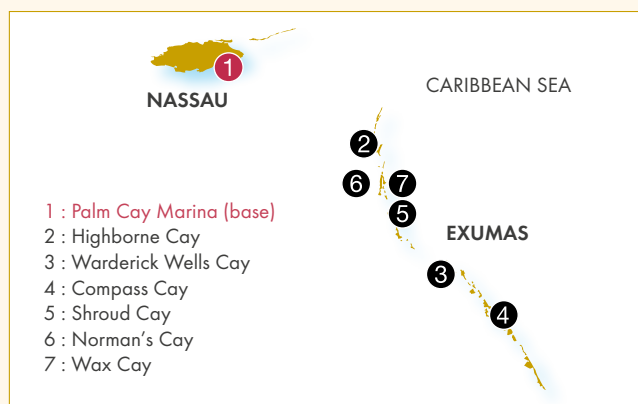

At Elbow Cay and Green Turtle Cay you will find colourful colonial architecture. In Hope Town, visit the famous lighthouse with its red, barley sugar stripes which marks the Elbow Cay reef.

The beaches of the Bahamas are famous the world over. Lovers of sunbathing and snorkelling should not miss the 11 km-long Great Guana Beach! The beach at Treasure Cay is listed in the top 10 most beautiful beaches in the world. Of breathtaking beauty, it extends for more than 5 km. With its year-round hot climate, steady winds, natural beauty and extraordinarily warm people, Cuba goes beyond the dreams of any sailor. When Christopher Columbus discovered this island in 1492, he exclaimed: "I have never seen such a beautiful land!".

The largest island in the Caribbean, Cuba is part of an archipelago numbering 4,000 islands and islets (the "cayos"). The huge variety of its landscapes mixing mountains, fertile valleys and infinite beaches of fine sand make Cuba a fascinating destination. The Cuban towns, and particularly Havana and Trinidad, benefit from rich colonial architecture and are UNESCO world heritage sites.

Take advantage of Trinidad's night-life where you will learn to dance the rumba and salsa with its inhabitants and take a tour of Havana on board an American car from the 1950s.

The island has a reliable sailing infrastructure supported by the government: you can find around twenty marinas and sailing centres which readily welcome boats from all states and offer every service.

Our base can be found at the Club Cienfuegos - Punta Gorda. Cienfuegos is a dynamic, prosperous harbour town. There is an abundance of entertainment and restaurants in this town, where you can soak up Cuban culture!

From there, the Canarreos Archipelago is yours to discover. The entire coastline and islands are accessible, with the exception of the Bay of Pigs (Playa Giron), where the failed attempt at military invasion to remove Fidel Castro took place.

Guadeloupe is part of the Windward Islands and can be distinguished geographically by its butterfly shape. The east wing is called Grande-Terre. The capital, Pointe-à-Pitre, to the south, is the centre for tourism. The west wing, called Basse-Terre, is less well developed economically and is taken up in the majority by a national park. A narrow canal, the Rivière Salée separates the island in two.

Immense fields of sugar cane and a marvellous tropical forest are home to rare species of multicoloured birds and many animals. Lovers of free diving and scuba divers will be fascinated by the diversity of life underwater, in the azure blue, transparent waters which characterise Guadeloupe. Gourmets will indulge in its subtly delicious cuisine, a mixture of French and Creole influences. You certainly should not miss the Cascade aux Ecrevisses and its refreshing natural swimming pools. For an even more spectacular excursion in Basse-Terre, walk to the Carbet falls through the tropical forest. From our base in Pointe-à-Pitre, you can sail towards the south, following a route which will allow you to moor at untouched islands with breathtaking tropical forests.

If you prefer sailing to visits onshore, set a cap to the north for interesting ocean sailing. The Jacques Cousteau underwater reserve, close to Pigeon islet, protects abundant underwater life and forests of multicoloured coral. This marine park is considered one of the most beautiful sites for diving in the world.

Close by, the Saintes form a little paradise over which you can have a panoramic view by climbing to the top of the Tour du Chameau at Terre-de-Haut and Marie-Galante, also called "the big galette" or even "the island of a hundred windmills" will charm you with her authenticity, her innumerable white sand beaches and lagoons bordered by coral reefs.

The British Virgin Islands are an archipelago comprising around sixty islands situated to the north of the Lesser Antilles which separate the Atlantic Ocean from the Caribbean Sea. Tortola, Jost Van Dyke, Virgin Gorda and Anegada are the main islands in this magnificent archipelago.

Made famous by Robert Louis Stevenson thanks to his novel "Treasure Island", this string of enchanting islands is known for being one of the most beautiful sailing destinations on the planet! The almost constant trade winds, visual navigation and many safe moorings make it a magnificent playground for sailors.

The Dream Yacht Charter base is located in Scrub Island, not far from the airport. From there, you can set your sails in the direction of an open door to paradise!

Let yourself be carried by the trade winds from island to island. The distances are short and you will have the time to enjoy each mooring with its magnificent fine sandy beaches. You can also discover the rich underwater life, particularly when diving to the famous wreck of the RMS Rhône. At sunset, after the last swim of the day, you will dine on tasty fish onshore.

You will enjoy the tranquillity of Benures Bay, Key Bay and Lee Bay and after a swim in The Indians marine park, you will hop over to Dog Island. Martinique, a French overseas department, is situated at the heart of the Caribbean archipelago, in the Windward Islands of the Lesser Antilles. It is one of the jewels of the French Antilles. The capital of Martinique, Fort de France, is the embodiment of French culture with its style and panache, from the excellence of its cuisine to the elegant sophistication of its hotels.

Its shops offer all the new arrivals from France; its art galleries, theatres and museums pay homage to its cultural heritage. Older people play boules in the squares, while the café terraces are overflowing. However, the warmth of the West Indian welcome is mixed with these traditions, a spicy note in the music, dance, local cuisine and the ensemble creates a unique lifestyle. Martinique offers the typical landscapes of postcards from the Caribbean, with its white sandy beaches to the south, black sand to the north. There, you will discover protected creeks perfect for swimming and free diving, authentic fishing villages, hot water springs, a luxurious tropical forest, steep, rugged peaks and a profusion of exotic flowers and fruits.

Our base at Marin is easily accessible from the airport at Lamentin. The marina is located in a magnificent lagoon and has every facility: supermarkets, restaurants and ship chandlers. The Marin marina - one of the largest in the Caribbean - is particularly welcoming to sailing yachts.

You can choose to sail towards the north and the Anses d'Arlet, the bay of Fort-de-France and Saint-Pierre, or even head for Saint Lucia, to the south, to discover Rodney Bay, the Soufrière waterfalls and its hot water springs, as well as the magnificent mooring at the famous Deux Pitons. Then you will continue towards the south and after Bequia, Moustique and Mayreau, you will moor at the sublime Tobago Cays, at the heart of the Grenadines.

From dense jungle to heavenly islands, there is something for everyone in Puerto Rico. It is one of the most northerly islands in the Caribbean. Its name is very apt ("rico" means "rich" in Spanish) as it has an abundance of natural resources. Inhabited for more than 4,000 years, this island, which is full of unexpected surprises, has a fascinating history. Its inhabitants are very welcoming and always ready to help you discover their culture and their secrets.

Officially attached to the United States with the status of an Associated State, Puerto Rico is an island full of contrasts. Its culture benefits from Spanish, African and Native American influences. It is for this reason that Puerto Ricans often call themselves "Boricuas", from Borinquen, the Indian name for Puerto Rico, in homage to their cultural heritage.

Our Puerto Rican base is located in Puerto del Rey, the largest marina in the Caribbean. There, you can take advantage of the sea-front restaurants and the bay's Caribbean atmosphere. The island's mountainous interior and the tropical forest of the El Yunque national park are worth a visit for majestic waterfalls and exotic fauna and flora. Don't miss either the beautiful colonial architecture of the historic centre of the capital, San Juan.

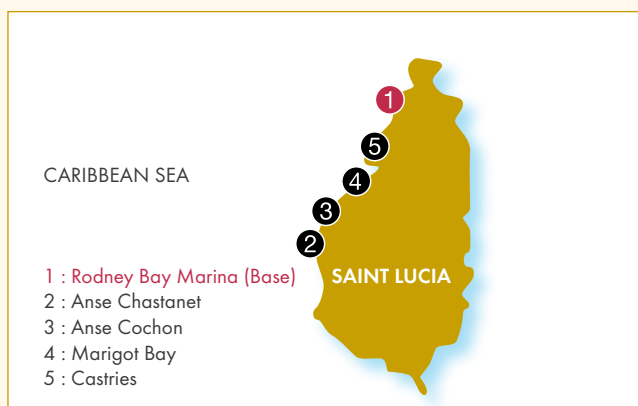

Then sail from one island to another: Mona, Desecheo, Caja de Muertos, Culebra and its famous Flamingo Beach. Then to on to Green Beach on the island of Vieques. Lastly, enjoy a night swim in Mosquito Bay, the most brilliant bioluminescent bay in the world. Only two of these islands are inhabited, which gives you the chance of finding moorings where you will be all alone in the world.

Arriving in Saint Lucia, it's easy to understand why this place is so well appreciated by sailors. As the ideal departure point for exploring the Grenadines and other islands in the Caribbean, you should first set out to conquer Rodney Bay and the Pigeon Island National Park in the north of Saint Lucia. To the south, don't forget to stop at Vieux Fort.

Lovers of hiking will be able to follow the Gros Piton natural footpath to discover one of the most spectacular views in the Caribbean.

The best spots for diving in Saint Lucia are at Anse Chastanet, Anse Cochon, Marigot Bay, Reduit Beach and Rodney Bay. You will be marvelled by the tropical fish, turtles and other dolphins when you take a trip under water. If you are a real diving fan, we advise you to dive the Piton Wall, a staggering submarine wall totally covered in sponges and coral.

Once you have finished exploring Saint Lucia, you can set a cap for one of the many neighbouring islands. To the north, travel towards Martinique, Dominique, Guadeloupe, Antigua, St Bart's, Saint Martin and the British Virgin Islands. To the south, set off to discover Saint Vincent, Bequia, Moustique, Canouan, Mayreau, Union and the Tobago Cays with its five inhabited islands.

THE CARIBBEAN SAINT MARTIN

Saint Martin is one of our most popular bases in the northern Antilles, just after the British Virgin Islands. It is the smallest territory shared between two independent countries, France and the Netherlands.

Chartering a boat there allows you to explore some of the most beautiful islands in the region. The mixture of cultures makes it unlike anywhere else in the Antilles. With its world class restaurants, legendary beaches, music and fascinating past, Saint Martin invites you to taste its charms. Owing to its French, Dutch and Caribbean influences, a triple culture has developed in Saint Martin, where sophistication mixes in day-to-day life with a relaxed style, creating a lifestyle which is individual to this island.

Our base is located in Marigot Bay, surrounded by turquoise blue waters and with a very lively town centre. From there, you can discover the Simpson Bay lagoon, admire the mega-yachts and enjoy the sunset from the Yacht Club in Saint Martin.

Then travel west towards Grand Case, a typical Creole village with colourful houses and many restaurants serving delicious local cuisine. You should also discover Tintamarre at the heart of a natural reserve before sailing on towards Pinel islet. You are also a stone's throw from mythical St Bart's. A cruise departing from Saint Martin offers a great variety of itineraries which will delight any sailor, whether they are looking for short trips from one island to another or ocean sailing.

SAINT VINCENT AND THE GRENADINES

Thanks to its natural beauty, this island is the perfect incarnation of a tropical paradise; besides this, it is much less touristy than some of its neighbours.

Among the 32 enchanting islands in the Grenadines, located in the Windward Islands, only 9 of them (notably Moustique, Bequia and Union) are inhabited. Saint Vincent, the largest of these islands, is the ideal starting point for a cruise in the authentic Caribbean islands and the Grenadines.

Bathed by the trade winds, the island of Saint Vincent has many centres of interest: its still-active volcano, La Soufrière, which culminates at 1,200 metres, its magnificent beaches of black or white sand and its botanic gardens which are over a hundred years old. Our base is located in Blue Lagoon Bay, at the heart of a well sheltered marina.

Sail at your leisure and play at explorers, improvising a voluntary shipwreck on one of the deserted islands with infinitely long beaches, bordered by tropical vegetation and bathed in the warm sea of the Caribbean.

Discover incredible stopovers in Mayreau, Canouan and Petit St Vincent before taking advantage of the magic of the Tobago Cays at the heart of the Grenadines, with its colourful reef teeming with tropical fish. Union, sometimes called the Tahiti of the Antilles, is the most southerly of the Grenadines and is worth a visit. Wherever you go, you can watch dolphins, whales and sea turtles.

GRENADA

A unique mix of French and English cultures, an abundance of rare exotic flowers and fruit, a rich anecdotal history and well spiced dishes: Grenada really deserves the name of spice island. It is also the ideal starting point for a peaceful cruise to the famous Grenadines, one of the most beautiful spots for sailing in the Caribbean.

Grenada is a country comprising a chain of six islands, including Grenada, Carriacou and Petite Martinique. The island of Grenada has many beaches, the most well-known being the 3-kilometre long beach at Grand Anse, listed at the top of the 19 most beautiful beaches in the world.

The “spice island” is an important producer of ginger, chillies, mace and, most particularly, nutmeg. Grenada is also a pioneer in growing organic cocoa, which is transformed by the Grenada Chocolate Company. As soon as you arrive, you will be enchanted by Grenada and your cruise in the Grenadines will be unforgettable. Warm yourself up in the breath of the trade winds, enjoy the romantic moonlight, relive the history of the area by exploring centuries-old forts, take a hike in the splendid tropical forests, dive on the reef teeming with multicoloured fish, all to the rhythm of the soca, calypso and reggae!

Our base is located in Port Louis marina, which has a good-sized commercial area: restaurants, banks, a pharmacy, supermarket, charming shops and a hotel. Over one or two weeks, Dream Yacht Charter promises you a sumptuous cruise in the turquoise waters of the marvellous Grenadines.

More than 1,200 islands are dotted in the Adriatic Sea along the Croatian coastline and make it one of the most beautiful destinations for cruising in Europe. The current Republic of Croatia was part of the Austro-Hungarian Empire until the end of the First World War, and then became Yugoslavia until 1991. There, you will find hospitable towns, very well-kept ports and lively fishing villages. Our bases are located in Dalmatia, in Zaton (close to Šibenik) and in Trogir, Dubrovnik and now in Pula in Istria.

Šibenik is an ideal starting point for your cruise. You can visit the fortress of Saint Anne, the emblem of the town. Close by, at Primošten, you will find magnificent beaches, such as Raduca, often listed among the country's 10 most beautiful. Back on the water, you can travel back up the river to the impressive waterfalls in the Krka National Park.

You will then travel on towards the Kornati National Park with its 140 inhabited islands. The Kornati are a nautical paradise with their calm waters and innumerable islets. Some of the monuments in the medieval fortified town of Trogir date from the 13th century; don't miss the bas-relief at Kairos dating from the 3rd century BC in the Benedictine convent of Saint Nicolas. Further to the north, Zadar shows its Roman and Venetian influences. In the Zadar archipelago, the mountainous island of Ugljan has creeks ideal for swimming and superb footpaths for hiking.

A little further south, Split is famous for its olives and aromatic plants. It has played an important role in history: the Roman emperor Diocletian chose this protected site to build a palace.

Dubrovnik, also called "the Pearl of the Adriatic" is located in the south of Croatia. It is known worldwide for its massive fortifications dating from the 16th century and its well-preserved monuments. Taking a walk in its Renaissance parks and discovering its medieval palaces is a must! The town's climate is typically Mediterranean, with its hot, dry summers and its gentle, wet winters. Lemon and orange trees are in abundance.

Its economy has been based for a long time on maritime commerce, but tourism has played a great role in its development. Its popularity has grown even more owing to the series "Game of Thrones", including the famous scenes which were filmed in Dubrovnik. The Irish writer George Bernard Shaw said "Anyone looking for paradise on earth should come to Dubrovnik".

Pula, on the Istrian Peninsula, famous for its festivals and concerts, is a fantastic gateway to the islands of Kvarner, such as Krk, the largest island in the Adriatic..

Onshore, you should visit the monuments from the Roman era, especially the amphitheatre in Pula which has been particularly well preserved. Don't forget the Temple of Augustus, either, for its rich sculpture.

Pula is also a modern, vibrant town, but its town centre has an almost village atmosphere. As for the rest of Croatia, Pula's economy is founded largely on the fishing and wine industries. Nature lovers will want to discover the superb national parks in the Pula region and their well-maintained ports of call.

Travel on towards the Brijuni Islands and the national park of the same name, a region of dense forests and wild animals. Then sail towards Cres and Lošinj to the south, where Greek mythology still resonates in the villages. It is said that Jason and the Argonauts found the Golden Fleece there. Set your sails then towards Rab, the most beautiful island of the Kvarner, with its wonderful creeks, or Pag to taste the delicious cheese at Kolan. Gourmets will find the best restaurants in this region: Italian gastronomy has a Croatian influence there, so try the tasty seafood and exquisite white truffles. Remember that vine cultivation is ancestral here and benefits from the sun and climate which are particularly suited to this. Croatian merlots and cabernets are very well known.

The archipelago of the Balearics, one of the most beautiful of the Mediterranean, is located off the west coast of the Iberian Peninsula. It is an independent Spanish province whose history goes back to the Greek and Phoenician civilisations.

The Balearic archipelago is divided into two groups: the Gymnesian Islands include Majorca, Minorca and Cabrera, while Ibiza and Formentera make up the Pityusic Islands. You will receive a warm welcome from the inhabitants.

These islands enjoy nearly 300 days of sun every year, more than 350 magnificent beaches and warm crystalline waters. Being strategically situated between the European continent and Africa, they have suffered many invasions over the centuries and it is possible to find traces of human habitation there dating from around 8,000 BC.

Don't forget to include in your itinerary at least one of the spectacular grottos which make up the landscape of the Balearics. The most famous grottos are the Dragon Grottos in Majorca, with their sensational stalagmites and stalactites, as well as a subterranean lake. For watching dolphins, whales and seabirds, travel towards the marine and land natural reserve of the Cabrera archipelago, made up of a group of 19 islands and islets south of Majorca. In Minorca, you can visit the astonishing megalithic monuments called "talaiots" and "taules".

And for wine lovers, there are at least 13 vineyards in the Balearics, where wine has been produced since the Roman era. You can see that, whether you want to laze on the beach, visit nature reserves, discover vineyards or party, the Balearics offer you the best choice.

If you are an art lover, visit Figueras and the Salvador Dali museum where the remains of the artist repose in the crypt and find the inspiration which has led so many legendary artists to this region of Europe. Take a trip to Cadaquès to see Dali's astonishing house in Port Lligat, now transformed into a museum with a collection of some incredible works of art.

The traditional fishing village of Tossa de Mar is worth a visit, with its medieval architecture and its Maura Tower built in the 16th century. If you love ancient history, go to see the Greco-Roman site of Empuries, between L'Escala and Sant Marti, where you can walk among the remains of walls, temples and mosaics discovered in 1908.

The local cuisine offers delicacies with a Greek influence: the traditional fish stew, seafood or squid ink risotto. Alongside these, drink some cava, a Spanish sparkling wine, or some sangria. ## CORSICA

With a character all of its own, Corsica is a French island located in the Mediterranean Sea to the south east of France. It well and truly earns its name of the Island of Beauty. With 620 km of coastline, more than 200 superb beaches, nature reserves and mountain refuges, Corsica has been able to preserve a certain authenticity.

Close to our base in Propriano, the Corsican coastline is studded with "Genoise towers" from the 16th century, which have become one of the symbols of the island. Napoleon Buonaparte was born in Ajaccio and the place of his birth, now a museum, is open to the public.

Our base in Ajaccio in the Tino Rossi port is perfectly situated for sailing towards the marine grottos at Sagone and the pristine beaches of Girolata. With its many natural reserves which cover more than a third of the island, Corsica offers an exceptional natural heritage.

The diversity of landscape of this island is astonishing, such as, for example, the Scandola nature reserve (listed by UNESCO) which is home to a dolphin and whale sanctuary. With magnificent beaches and coastline such as the cliffs at Bonifacio, Corsica is a real jewel for those who approach its shores by boat.

Greece is certainly the cradle of western civilisation, with its political, philosophical, historical, artistic, medical, commercial and sporting heritage. The land of the most beautiful olive groves, antique civilisations and a relaxed lifestyle, it is made up of several archipelagos, each offering their cultural individualities and traditions. Our bases are located in the Aegean Sea and the Ionian Sea, in the Dodecanese and the Sporades. With its 8 bases in Greece, Dream Yacht offers you unforgettable holidays among splendid landscapes, fine sandy beaches, intensely blue skies, culture and history.

ATHENS

Our base in the Alimos marina is an ideal starting point for beginning a cruise in this region. You can also visit two listed UNESCO world heritage sites: the Acropolis with, of course, the Parthenon, and the monastery of Daphni. From there, you can discover the islands of the Saronic Gulf: Aegina, Salamis, Poros, Hydra with its natural springs and Spetses with its secret creeks.

LAVRION

Departing from Lavrion, sail towards the Cyclades, particularly Santorini with its blue-domed white villages perched on the top of the cliffs, or again the calmer islands of Serifos, Anafi and Tinos, to mention only a few.

THE IONIAN ISLANDS

Dream Yacht Charter has three bases in the Ionian Sea among the 7 main islands and the 30 minor islands: in Corfu (Gouvia marina), Lefkas (Lefkas marina) and Preveza (Preveza marina). Some enjoyable sailing awaits you around the other Ionian islands, including Paxos and Ithaca, Zante and Cephalonia. Corfu is an island with many beautiful things to see, including its old town listed by Unesco in its list of world heritage sites. Visit the ancient citadel (the Palaio Frourio) or the Achilleion Palace and its gardens.

Relax on the beaches of Gouvia, which offer many water activities and certainly don't forget to taste the famous sofritos in one of the taverna or restaurants in Spianada.

In Lefkas, the beach at Vassiliki is a paradise for wind surfing. Very high cliffs border the beaches of the west coast, as in Porto Katsiki and Egremnoi, perfect locations for taking spectacular, creative photos. If you are looking for quiet and isolation, you should go to the beach at Nidri. From Preveza, you can visit the ruins of the ancient Greek city of Nikopolis, literally the "city of victory" and swim in the Acheron, one of the purest streams in Greece, before crossing over to Paxos, an island covered in olive groves where there is a succession of little fishing ports, beaches, grottos and cliffs. A little further south is the island of Antipaxos, Paxos' little sister, which will reveal for you some of the most beautiful beaches in Greece.

THE SPORADES

The Sporades is made up of four main islands and twenty-four minor islands. Our base is located on the island of Skiathos, famous for its fortifications. This wooded island offers many beaches and creeks and is home to Mediterranean monk seals. Take advantage of the beach at Koukounadies or, if you dare, at the famous Banana Beach naturist beach.

THE CYCLADES

The 220 islands of the Cyclades are located to the south east of the mainland. Wherever you stop in the Cyclades, you will find transparent waters, breathtaking panoramas and warm people. Our base is in Paros in the Bay of Paroikia, well known for its naval construction and the silk trade. From there, set your sails for Santorini and its spectacular volcanic caldera. In cosmopolitan Mykonos you can party the night away.

THE DODECANESE ISLANDS

The Dodecanese are located between the Cyclades and the Turkish coast. Dream Yacht Charter has bases in Kos and Rhodes. Kos was home to Hippocrates' medical school and was the most important centre of trade in the antique era. Travelling to our base in Rhodes, in the port of Mandraki, you can see a pair of bronze stags where the Colossus of Rhodes used to stand.

Preveza is located in the heart of the Ionian Sea, at the entry to the Ambracian Gulf. Born during the Middle Ages following the abandon of the city of Nicopolis, the town has a rich and multicultural history. In turns Byzantine, Serbian, Venetian then Ottoman, the town even became French in 1797 following the Treaty of Campo-Formio signed by Napoleon Buonaparte. The Ottomans took the town again one year later and it was only in 1912, during the Balkan War, that Preveza became Greek.

The location of this town is ideal for a cruise in the Ionian Sea. Around 4 hours' sailing from Corfu, 2 hours from Lefkas and 3 hours from Paxos and Antipaxos, you can choose from many itineraries.

We would advise you to begin your trip by visiting Nikopolis, under 10 kilometres by car from Preveza. Its remains will set the scene for your cruise and will immerse you in the captivating history of the Greek civilisation.

Still on the coast but further to the north, you can also go for a swim in the Acheron, one of the most immaculate streams in Greece, before crossing to Paxos, an island covered in olives where you'll find a succession of little fishing ports, beaches, grottos and cliffs. According to legend, the god Poseidon tore this piece of land away from Corfu by a single stroke of his trident with the aim of creating a secret hideaway for his wife, Amphitrite.

A nautical mile to the south, you will spy the little island of Antipaxos. This inhabited, 5-kilometre-square jewel will unveil for you some of the most beautiful beaches in Greece. End your cruise with a touch of originality by travelling up the channel adjoining the town of Preveza (takes around 45 minutes) to get to the port of Vonitsa in the Ambracian Gulf.

Sicily is the largest island in the Mediterranean, separate from the point of the "boot" by the Strait of Messina, just a little wider than 3 kilometres. Visitors will be delighted by its history, archaeological remains and panoramic summits. It is also the gateway to the Aeolian Islands, a world heritage site listed by UNESCO.

Run up the sails and sail around the seven Aeolian Islands, a volcanic archipelago in the Tyrrhenian Sea, each one with its own personality and individuality. On Vulcano, take advantage of the hot mud baths and alternate these with the crystalline waters of the Spiaggia Bianca (white beach) at Pipari. Marvel at the explosions of lava by the Stromboli volcano and then set a cap for Ginostra, accessible only by boat, and its whitewashed houses.

Head on to Panarea, famous for the clarity of its waters and underwater exploration. Get away from it all in the distant islands of Filicudi, with its Grotta del Bue Marino, and Alicudi. If you have the courage, a climb will give you a spectacular panorama. Our base located in the Portorosa marina is a very good starting point for sailing in the Aeolian Islands. Rich in history, mountains and magnificent hills, the island is an ideal destination for fans of history and lovers of breathtaking scenery. Visit Etna, Europe's largest active volcano, situated on the east coast of Sicily, or the archaeological site of Agrigento, built at the beginning of the 14th century, or again the remains of the ancient Greek city of Akragas.

Don't miss the Lo Zingaro Nature Reserve, a true oasis of shingle beaches and untouched creeks with turquoise waters. The reserve stretches for 7 km with paths for hiking through a rich variety of flora and fauna. You may perhaps be able to spot peregrine falcons or loggerhead sea turtles which are also at home in the reserve.

Italy is famous for its cuisine and you should taste the pasta alla Norma, a historic Sicilian speciality of pasta with aubergines, tomatoes, ricotta and basil.

With its ancient ruins, friendly inhabitants, fine sandy beaches and cobalt blue crystalline waters, you could believe you were in the Caribbean or in Polynesia rather than in Sardinia, at the heart of the Mediterranean.

Set off for an adventure from our base in the Marina di Olbia, a very lively small town with historic charm. It is the perfect starting point for discovering the isolated moorings and beaches of the Gulf of Olbia.

Explore the Maddalena archipelago, islands in the Bonifacio Strait between Sardinia and Corsica. This area of the Tyrrhenian Sea is an extremely well protected natural park, so experience Caprera populated by gulls and falcons or travel towards La Maddalena and explore its many creeks.

Want some luxury? Set sail towards the Costa Smeralda and its pink granite coast where you can enjoy seaside resorts and golf courses. Although it's very popular with holidaymakers, you will always find a quiet mooring for the night in a charming creek.

Then sail towards Tavolara for an extraordinary stop in the bay of Spalmatore. Be sure to stop at Isola di Budelli, one of the most beautiful islands in the Mediterranean. Take a little time out for relaxing on the famous "Spiaggia rosa" or "pink beach", then travel on to the south and the famous coastal region of Chia, well known for its beaches such as the one at Porto Campana, with the splendid sand dunes as a backdrop.

The cuisine of the Sardinian coast is very different to that inland. The coastal cuisine is rich in seafood and shellfish, while the cuisine inland is based more on pasta served with cheese sauces.

With 300 km of jagged coastline, Montenegro is becoming a popular destination for all those who want to go further in their discovery of the Adriatic Coast. This country was the latest European state to declare its independence in 2006, but its origins go back to the Iron Age and to the Illyrians.

Situated just to the south of Croatia, Montenegro is beginning to attract lovers of sailing from all countries. It has much to offer with its fine sandy beaches, its uninhabited islands with deserted creeks and charming bays adorned with a rich architectural heritage which reminds us of this country's long history. Our new base is located in the bay of Kotor, the largest fjord in southern Europe, which looks spectacular with its forest-lined mountains which appear to literally fall into the sea.

The conditions for sailing there are fantastic - moderate winds and a warm climate - and suit sailors of all levels. The coast is dotted with towns and villages with Byzantine towers reflecting in the blue-green waters which are so particular to the translucent Adriatic.

The pace of life is tranquil and you can take your time discovering the old town of Herceg Novi dating from the 14th century, the Blue Grotto with its bats hanging from the ceiling or the beautiful shingle beach at Dobrec which is only accessible by boat. If you like partying, go to Ploce beach in Budva or, if you prefer quiet and solitude, take an early morning swim at the beach in Mogren. Any itinerary in Montenegro should include the sites of Perast and Kotor, heritage sites listed by Unesco. Climb the steps up to the top of the impressive Venetian fortress of Kotor. It's a steep climb, but the view over the town and bay is really worth it.

Turkish culture and history are as rich as its geography and climate. Turkey was one of the theatres of Ulysses' Odyssey and the Trojan wars. Emperor Constantine built Constantinople there, now Istanbul, which became the centre of Christianity.

With the fall of Rome, Constantinople became the centre of the Byzantine Empire, which then became predominately Islam.

The Seljuk dynasty reigned over the country for nearly 200 years until the Mongol invasion.

Finally, the resistance of a small group of Seljuks too power and created the Ottoman Empire, which lasted until the beginning of the 20th century.

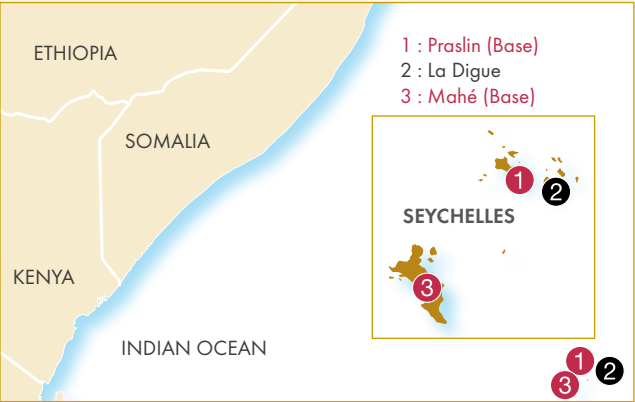

Following the First World War, the Ottomans were wiped from face of the earth and modern Turkey was born in 1922.

With more than 4,400 miles of coastline, Turkey is without doubt a sailor's paradise. Many restaurants have a jetty to welcome you. You can tie up for free if you are planning to eat in the restaurant.

If you prefer to moor somewhere quiet, you can choose one of the charming sheltered creeks which can be found one after the other along the well-named "Turquoise coast".

Moorings in Turkey are deep and it is not uncommon to have several dozens of metres depth just several metres from the shoreline and the seabed can rapidly be around a hundred of metres deep. After having anchored, most boats choose to attach the boat to land with one or two anchors. For conservation reasons, it is not advised to attach the boat to a tree, but instead make use of the rings which are often available for you.

Immense rocks of granite polished over the centuries by the waves of the Indian Ocean, giant coconut palms with their famous nuts which resemble a pair of buttocks, turquoise creeks rimmed with luxurious takamaka trees shading beaches of white sand. Such is the image we have of the Seychelles: paradise. And it's true, as these islands off the African coast are astonishingly beautiful.

Among the 115 islands which make up the Seychelles, the 41 Interior islands are ancient islands of granite. The 74 remaining coral islands - the Exterior islands - are more isolated. The Interior islands, particularly Praslin and La Digue, are close to the main island of Mahé. The island of Mahé, with its capital Victoria, is not comprised of granite. The other groups of islands, Amirantes, Faraquhar and Aldabra, are of coral. Our bases are in Mahé, in the south of the main island, and in Praslin - both are fantastic for sailing around the Interior islands.

Visit the island of Cousin, close to Praslin, a nature reserve which is home to a native bird sanctuary and giant turtles. This little island 300 metres in diameter offers a unique opportunity to photographers wanting to capture these tropical birds on film.

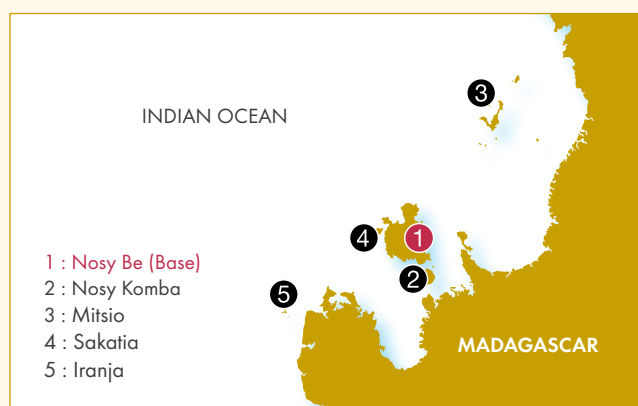

Nature lovers will sail towards Curieuse and stop at Anse San José to explore the national marine park of Curieuse. After a 45-minute walk, you'll have got to the other end of the island, where around a hundred giant turtles find shelter. You can't miss it. With their sparkling coral and exuberant marine life, the Seychelles offer some of the best diving sites in the world. Sail as far as Île Thérèse passing through Baie Ternay to discover the most beautiful free diving sites in the region and watch the rays and turtles.

An authentic destination!

Split from the African continent 160 million years ago, Madagascar is the fourth largest island in the world, being 1,600 km long and 500 km wide.

A multi-faceted land of contrasts, this destination remains at present unscathed by mass tourism and offers riches found in no other country: its flora and fauna.

Scientists estimate, in fact, that 80% to 90% of the species present on the island are native as they can be found nowhere else on earth.

Your adventure starts in the north west of Madagascar on the island of Nosy Be. This region combines creeks, white sandy beaches and coral islands named Nosy Komba, Sakatia, Iranja, Mitsio and Tan'Il.

Diversity is the best way to define this place. You will love its postcard side with the coconut palm above a crystalline blue sea, the flowers in thousands of colours and the plant of which only the Malagasy will be able to tell you the name.

Other than delights for the eyes, there are also delights for the ears with the music of nature, the flora and fauna, which you will adore listening to while gently bobbing along.

Nosy Be, whose nickname is "the perfume island" will end this re-awakening of your senses with the perfume of Ylang Ylang, as this yellow flower, very much like a magnolia, has found an exceptionally favourable climate in the region and is prized by the greatest perfume houses.

Although they are located under the tropics, the Whitsunday Islands benefit from a very favourable climate as they are refreshed by the trade winds almost all year round.

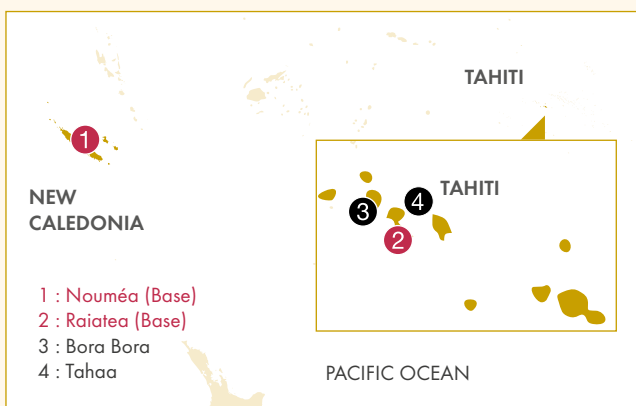

The islands are protected by the Great Barrier Reef and most are surrounded by coral reefs.

Set a cap for Hook Island. Well sheltered Nara Cove is the first night mooring we recommend. You will have the choice of a number of moorings. The most well-known is Stonehaven, and if you have an adventurous spirit, you can explore the waterfalls.

Then make a bee-line for Longford Island. This island is a long bank of sand which almost disappears at high tide. Langford makes a pleasant mooring during the daytime, so you can take advantage of the beach and snorkelling on its western side. Hamilton makes an excellent stop-over for the middle of your cruise so you can stock up.

The marina has restaurants, bars and souvenir shops, perfect for stretching your legs during a pleasant walk.

PACIFIC OCEAN NEW CALEDONIA AND TAHITI

NEW CALEDONIA

New Caledonia is now a French overseas collective. A coral reef 1,600 km long encircles the island, thus creating the most beautiful and largest lagoon in the world.

Refreshed by the Pacific Ocean and its trade winds, New Caledonia benefits from a gentle, sunny climate. You will find there a variety of impressive flora and fauna, both in the mountains and its warm waters.

With its incredible ethnic mix, New Caledonia is a land steeped in traditions, costumes and cultures. The mixture of Melanesian and French cultures, enriched with Polynesian and Asian influences, creates a harmonious and captivating way of life.

Your Caledonian adventure with Dream Yacht Charter begins in Nouméa, the capital. The French influence gives this cosmopolitan town the air of the Riviera, hundreds of thousands of nautical miles away in the South Pacific. The colourful seafront is lined with bars, cafes, restaurants and nightclubs. It is the perfect place to stock up on the specialities of French cuisine before setting sail.

TAHITI

Tahiti is only one of the islands (although the largest) of French Polynesia and there are 117 other islands spread over an area as large as Europe. They are located in 4 main archipelagos: the Society Islands, the Tuamotu Islands, the Gambier Islands and the Marquesas Islands.

The main Society Islands are particularly Bora Bora, Raiatea, Tahaa and Huahine. They are characterised by landscapes with pronounced relief, the consequences of a volcanic past. They are sparkling jewels which you will discover during your cruise to Tahiti. Their coral reefs are home to turtles, sharks, harbour porpoises, untouched, colourful coral and innumerable species of fish.

The Society Islands offer a wide range of luxury hotels each more sumptuous than the other and a wide range of water sports from surfing to underwater diving. The many archaeological and historical sites of the island of Raiatea are worth a visit. They will allow you to discover one of the aspects of Polynesian culture.

Taste the local cuisine full of exotic vegetables, fruit and fish prepared with a Polynesian influence and a touch of French cuisine. At Taha'a, dive into the Passe Tohaotu close to the coral reef for a memorable swim, then sail towards Huahine and visit the traditional village of Fare with its peaceful atmosphere.

There, you will find typical restaurants with a family atmosphere to fill you up and some shops. Raiatea is the second largest island in French Polynesia and is home to the Dream Yacht Charter base.

White beaches stretching for kilometres, safe moorings, marvellous snorkelling and heavenly sailing are the main features of this South Pacific treasure.

All our boats follow a very strict maintenance programme. If a technical incident should arise in spite of our quality controls, we are committed to intervening within 4 hours of receiving your call to the base, if this occurs during the base opening hours (from 8.00 am to 5.00 pm).

If you lose more than 4 hours (during the base opening hours) we will reimburse you for a full day. If the repair takes more than one day, we will change your boat for a similar boat or one in a higher category or we will reimburse you pro rata for the fee paid for your rental. *

In case of emergency, you can call our hotline 7 days a week. Dream Yacht Charter considers the generator, air-conditioning and desalinator to be auxiliary equipment and limits the compensation given in the case of their failure to 500€/ 600US$; this compensation will be made on a pro rata bases in the case of the failure of this equipment during your cruise.

  - not to modify the date of the end of the charter contract and be reimbursed the sum corresponding to the deprivation of tenure of the boat, based proportionally on the charter cost and the number of days lost,
  - if the delay exceeds a quarter of the total charter period, the chartering party may cancel and be reimbursed the amount of his charter cost.

In all cases, the chartering party may not request from the renter any compensation for potential damages suffered owing the unavailability of the boat. No reimbursement can be made for any charter interrupted or foreshortened or any service not used by the chartering party, for any cause whatsoever.

QUALIFICATIONS AND SECURITY

The skipper of a boat has primary responsibility for the security of the boat and its crew. By accepting the contract, he confirms that he is competent and qualified to manoeuvre the boat in accordance with the rules in operation in the zone concerned.

A sailing license is obligatory for a charter without skipper in the Mediterranean (except France). It is not required for the majority of our other destinations, but our crews must ensure that you and one of your crew are qualified to manoeuvre the boat and it is therefore necessary to send them a detailed summary of your experience.

Dream Yacht Charter reserves the right not to deliver the chartered vessel if the chartering party does not appear qualified to assume responsibility for it or, if a skipper is available, to put him on board for the required period for the security of the boat and its passengers, at the cost of the chartering party. The skipper must take note of the written or communicated information regarding security and the navigation zone and must inform his crew of this. He is obliged to take an inventory of the boat and its equipment before departure.

Sailing alone is not authorised and a second member of the crew must also be sufficiently qualified.

In some countries, the second qualified person must be at least 18 years old.

Night sailing is not permitted.

For security reasons, Dream Yacht Charter may have to impose on you a change of itinerary and/or decide whether sailing conditions are safe and appropriate.

Dream Yacht Charter reserves the right not to authorise the chartering party to leave port in the case of dangerous meteorological conditions. The chartering party must restore the boat within the contractual period and agrees not to take to sea in bad weather, even if this could lead to a delayed return. In this case, the chartering party must advise Dream Yacht Charter (as late penalties may nevertheless be applied).

On his return, the chartering party must restore the boat to a member of the Dream Yacht Charter team. Dream Yacht Charter must be informed of any damage, loss or incident.

The chartering party agrees not to transport any passengers other than those indicated on the crew list.

At the time of booking, our expert advisers will confirm that your boat-handling qualifications are appropriate and valid for a charter without skipper.
